WORKING ON THE CITY'S STREETS

Supt. A. R. Ross of the P. J. Moran company, states that grading on Grant avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, is progressing favorably and that in the course of the week the avenue will be ready for paving. The first part of the paving will consist of about six inches of coarse concrete material, then about two inches of binder, a combination of asphaltum and coarse gravel, after which a layer of asphaltum nearly two inches thick will be placed.

The company's asphalt plant on West Twenty-fourth street is being placed in readiness for the paving and the superintendent states that it will be ready for use next Monday, when the repaving on Twenty-fifth street from Wall to Washington avenues and Twenty-fourth street from Grant to Washington will begin.

When the laying of asphalt pavement begins on Grant avenue and the repaving work on the two streets that are now full of holes, the grading gang will be placed at work grading the intersections on Washington avenue at Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, the city, in the meantime, to remove the stone blocks at the intersections.

'PERFECTLY DELIGHTED'

Thus Spoke Wilson on Learning of His Success

Sagitt, N. J., July 2.—Governor Wilson was seated on the veranda of the Little White House with Mrs. Wilson and his daughters when he received news of his nomination from his managers.

"The honor is as great as can come to any man by the nomination of a party," he said, "especially under the circumstances. I hope I appreciate it at its true value; but just at this moment, I feel the tremendous responsibility it involves even more than I feel the honor."

"I hope with all my heart that the party will never have reason to regret it."

Sea Girl, N. J., July 2.—Governor Wilson was in the bath tub when the reporter burst into the executive home and shouted:

"Governor, Illinois has gone to you."

There were sounds of vigorous splashing within the bathroom but no other response. The governor's three daughters danced with delight when they heard the news. A moment later the governor sent word to the reporters that he was "perfectly delighted."

After the governor had finished his bath, he came out to the newspaper men on the lawn.

"It has occurred to me," he said, "addressing the reporters, 'that you may have wondered why I have not shown more emotion during the convention proceedings, that some of you must have thought I felt so cocksure of the result that I took the details as a matter of fact. Nothing could be further from the truth. My emotion is so deep that it cannot efface itself and I feel more solemn as the nomination draws closer.'"

"I feel that the delegates at Baltimore in voting for me are voting not for a man but a principle. I feel that they believe I represent them and not myself. Under a responsibility so great, I could not find it in my heart to kick up my heels in action."

At this moment Joseph P. Flannery, the governor's secretary, announced the forty-third ballot. "Six hundred and two votes for you, Governor," he said.

"It looks like business," the governor remarked. Then he said: "Have you told Mrs. Wilson?"

"No sir, I came first to you."

"Please tell her at once," he replied.

Governor Wilson was posing for a photograph with his wife when he was informed that Underwood had withdrawn.

"Well, I declare," said the governor, "that will give me enough if they all go to me."

Mrs. Wilson, whose native state is Georgia, said:

"The only thing I regret is that Georgia did not vote for Mr. Wilson." Governor Wilson said that at one time during the convention he completely despaired of receiving the nomination. That was on Friday evening when Speaker Clark received a majority of the total vote. Governor Wilson then wired to his manager at Baltimore, William F. McCombs, to release the Wilson delegates.

Mr. McCombs, according to Governor Wilson, told the delegates they were released, but they refused to change their vote.

During the time immediately preceding his nomination, the governor walked back and forth on the lawn, chatting informally with newspaper men and residents of the town who came to be on hand for a celebration. Mrs. Wilson and her daughters had been keeping tally of the steadily increasing vote for the governor.

When the nomination was officially announced, friends and neighbors, both Republicans and Democrats, came to offer their congratulations and an impromptu reception was held on the lawn.

Militia officers at the state rifle range near here deserted their practice and came over to shake the nominee's hand. A mile away a brass band had been held in readiness at Manassas, and it was immediately dispatched to the Wilson cottage when news came of the governor's nomination.

The governor played his golf alone this morning and did not even keep a score. He returned to the cottage about the time the convention resumed its session.

HANFORD WAS DRUNK

Judge Said to Have Been Intoxicated in Public Places

Seattle, July 2.—The committee of the house of representatives investigating charges against United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford, continued to hear testimony today regarding occasions when the judge was said to have been intoxicated.

The committee was disinclined to go deeply into the testimony regarding the judge's supposed visits to a woman living in a fashionable residence district.

A flash-light, said to be a picture of Judge Hanford, taken by a detective as he was entering the woman's house at night, was submitted as evidence. Hanford's attorneys cross-examined the detective until members of the committee objected, declaring there was no intention of making the detective's report a part of the record and that the committee did not wish to probe the matter.

CELEBRATED SELLER'S KITCHEN CABINET

This cabinet is made of solid oak with a very smooth finish. The floor bin is adjustable, can be lifted out, cleaned and filled. Other styles you have to climb a ladder, pour it in a hole on top and scatter the floor all over the room. Sellers have a full sliding polished aluminum top with an extra top under the sliding top so that no crumbs or dirt can get down into the cabinet. Other cabinets do not have this. It has a full set of space cans made of glass, and is the only cabinet with a glass, sanitary sugar bin. There is a cupboard in the top for dishes and an extra cupboard for pies and cakes, which is ventilated in the back with a screen so they will keep perfectly. All the corners on this cabinet are rounded. Compare this cabinet with any other make on the market, that is being offered for $45.00 and $50.00, and you will say that this cabinet at $35.00 is the cheapest cabinet on the market.

OGDEN THEATER

The Ogden theater, which this week changed its management, is presenting a bill this week that is certainly pleasing its ever increasing list of patrons.

Billy Elwood, the new manager, is straining every effort to make his show an attractive one. The orchestra organization, which has been changed, rendered a pleasing overture which was followed by Brandon & Taylor, a singing and yodling act that carries its own scenery. Bert Wiggins is an exceptionally clever cartoonist and juggler, with a line of comedy that is novel and pleasing.

The show was closed by the Newmans, who gave a bicycle act that brought a perfect roar of applause. Interesting pictures were shown between the acts, and the progress of the baby contest elicited considerable interest.

The management promises a still better bill for next week.

ENGINEER HERE FOR U. L. & RY. CO.

Local Manager S. T. Whitaker of the Utah Light and Railway company, states that Engineer L. L. Dargon is in the city for the purpose of making a complete examination of the work that is being done at the company's power dam in Ogden canyon.

The company has in mind the rapid completion of the work of raising the power dam, preliminary to which is the changing of the grade of the county road.

It is expected that the engineer will insist that the grade work be accomplished at an earlier date than at present contemplated so that the work of laying concrete may begin without delay.

The raising of the dam will not be accomplished until the low water period in the river, except that cement required to be placed at points on either side of the river may be laid at an earlier period. Mr. Dargon will return to the state capital this evening, after his trip to the canyon.
